

Good job, guys. You've already ruined radio in the US. Now you've begun to repeat the process with TV. The only thing good in your new rules, in my opinion, is allowing Newspapers to once again own TV stations. Banning that was stupid in the first place. But, I guess from your point of view (that is, right wing) now that you've virtually eliminated any voices on local radio other than your media conglomerate buddies, applying the same technique to TV makes sense. Since groups as varied as the NRA and NOW objected, I guess this demonstrates that your constituents are Viacom, Fox, GE, Disney and Clear Channel. Guess your next challenge will be to kill public broadcasting, huh.
